

I have subscribed to XM Satellite radio for about 1 year now and I truly enjoy the uninterrupted broadcasts of music, news, traffic and weather. This is a valuable service that should not be compromised by the incapable broadcasters across the country who are doing a less than sufficient job. If they are truly worried about the competition, they will step up to the plate and begin performing their jobs in a more efficient way. It is the American tradition of free enterprise and that should in no way be compromised because lazy and inefficient operators are being pushed aside.
